RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Doctor of Philosophy in Clinical Psychology, Dissertation Project Saint Louis University, St. Louis, MO	Summer 2015-Spring 2017
--	---------------------------------------

Title: Biomarkers of Early Alzheimer's Disease and Attentional Control Performance in Cognitively Healthy Older Adults

Chair: David A. S. Kaufman, Ph.D. ABPP/CN

Master of Science in Clinical Psychology, Thesis Project

Spring 2013-Spring 2015

Saint Louis University, St. Louis, MO

Title: Attentional Control in Preclinical Alzheimer's Disease: Behavioral and Electrophysiological Correlates of Cued-Stroop Performance

Chair: David A. S. Kaufman, Ph.D. ABPP/CN

Cognitive and Affective Psychophysiology Lab

Fall 2012-present

Research Assistant

- Collect, process, and analyze electrophysiological data
- Train graduate and undergraduate students in the use of EEG equipment
- Participate in monthly didactic seminars related to topics in clinical neuropsychology and cognitive neuroscience
- Initiate and manage a scientific collaboration with a local Alzheimer's Disease Research Center for the purpose of collecting behavioral, electrophysiological, and biomarker data in older adults with varying degrees of risk for Alzheimer's disease

Social Cognition Lab

Spring 2011-Spring 2012

Research Assistant

- Participated in project development, data collection, and data analysis for multiple projects
- Gained experience with MediaLab experiment constructing software
- Completed conference presentations and a peer-reviewed manuscript

Behavioral Interventions of Health Risk Behaviors Lab

Fall 2010-Spring 2012

Research Assistant

- Participated in project development, data collection, and data analysis for multiple projects
- Gained experience with Qualtrics online survey software
- Participated in scientific writing groups
- Completed conference presentations and peer-reviewed manuscripts
